MODISH GIRL STEALS $1000 IN JEWELRY

Inferior Fruit Is Seized; Vendors Are Being Fined

Designed to protect Alameda county consumers against green and camouflaged fruits, County Horticultural Commissioner Fred Suelberger is conducting a vigorous campaign of inspection of all incoming shipments. As a result, one hundred cases of apricots from Solano county were seized today and the arrest of the shipper sought in police court.

The fruit, it is alleged, was picked green, was improperly packed and topped. Yesterday ten cases, consigned from Southern California, were seized as being green picked and shriveled.

Several vendors of inferior strawberries have been fined. Fine during the last six months, Suelberger says, amount to more than $10,000.

Striking Appearings Thief Is Seen Leaving Apartments; Takes Diamonds, Pearls, Escapes With Loot in Coupe

S. F. Watchman Tied, Robbed and Safe Blown; Bandits Dash Pepper in the Eyes of Jeweler; Steal $100,000

Diamonds and two pearl necklaces, worth more than $1000, were the loot of a fashionably dressed woman burglar last night in the Modesto apartments, 1518 Fourth avenue.

She worked in broad daylight and made a leisurely search of two apartments in the fashionable apartment house before she left with the loot.

She succeeded in entering the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Chodzko, who are spending a few weeks in Oakland from Los Angeles. Owing to her fashionable attire and the assured way in which she entered the apartment Mrs. John Sowden, who met her in the hallway, did not suspect that she was a burglar.

POLICE GIVEN GOOD DESCRIPTION

Mrs. Sowden gave the police a good description of the woman. The police are continuing their hunt who is responsible for the two major burglaries within the last month. She was tall and strikingly dressed, according to Mrs. Sowden, and a pronounced blonde.

From the apartment of the Chodzko's she took miscellaneous jewelry and many articles of attire.

She then entered the apartment of H. W. Williams, where she obtained a valuable pearl necklace, a large diamond ring and other articles of great value.

When she left the apartment house she is thought to have driven away in a large coupe, which was parked across the street.

R. H. Marchant, 2340 Mitchell street, reported to the police this morning that burglar last night ransacked his entire house and took some articles of attire were taken, besides $10 in currency, two diamond rings and some sapphires.

Breaking into the residence of Jimmy Duffy, $52 Thirty-first street, burglar last night, or early this morning, looted the house or the piggy bank. They obtained a gold bar pin set with four diamonds, a ruby locket and $10 in currency.

Edward O'Connor, a tailor, with a shop at 581 Eighth street, reported to the police that clothing that the thieves had forced their way into the store last night and had stolen nine suits of clothes, valued at $700.

WATCHMAN TIRED; SAFE IS ROBBED

SAN FRANCISCO, June 5.—Two masked and armed bandits last night entered the headquarters of the Sailors' Union on 39th Clark street, bound and gagged Fred Clark, of 55th Street, watchman, robbed him of $250 and a revolver, blew off the outer door of the office safe, and escaped. The hold-up occurred shortly after 10 o'clock last night, but it was not until 5 o'clock this morning that Smith was able to free himself from his bonds and call for the police.

According to Smith, he was making his rounds of the building when he encountered the two bandits in a hallway. They seized, bound and gagged him, locked him into a car, and, continuing, the safe, and laid him on the seat. After searching him and removing his revolver and $250 in currency, the robbers drilled the office safe in five places and then blew off the outer door with nitro-glycerine. The force of the explosion, however, was not sufficient to open the strong box.

Apparently fearing detection as a result of the explosion, the bandits took Smith's keys, locked him in the room and fled.

Detectives Michael Burke and George Clegg, however, answered his call for aid and found some tools and safe blowing instruments which the robbers had left behind them. Fingerprints on the tools are to be photographed and they are the only clues left by the safe crackers.

NEW YORK, June 5.—Two robbers, entering the jewelry establishment of the Scholesfeld Manufacturing company on Nassau street in the very heart of New York's business district, today threw pepper in the eyes of one of the proprietors and fled with a wallet said to contain $100,000 worth of diamonds.

WOMAN ROUTS ARMED BURGLAR

LOS ANGELES, June 5.—A telephone receiver was used by Mrs. E. P. Werner, 53, to rout a youth who entered her residence, 1668 South Kingsley Drive, armed with a revolver last night, according to report to the police. Mrs. Werner was alone in the house when she encountered the intruder in a hallway. Pointing the revolver at her, the youth told her to throw up her hands. Instead, Mrs. Werner seized the receiver and struck him on the head. The youth staggered and then fled from the house.

Professor Says Scholarship of Expelled Students Was Very Low.

United States prohibition officers are today investigating the party at the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity in Berkeley which resulted in the expulsion of two co-eds and four men from the University of California, in order to reveal the secret supply of liquor which was drawn upon for the alleged orgy, according to Frank M. Osborn.

Reports of Professor Thomas P. Putnam, dean of the lower division, show that the scholarship of the Deke was the lowest in the university, that there was not a single D. E. in the last graduating class of 2000 students, and that only two men who graduated last year no Deke had been in a graduating class for seven years, were submitted to the university today.

SAYS HE REFUSED TO MAKE HEROES

"I have refused to make heroes out of a small percentage of the student body at the high school, and hard worshippers of the rest," declared the director.

NEWS from CONVENTION HALL and POLITICAL FIELD

HOOVER WESTERN OUTLAY $83,210, GREGORY SAYS

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Warren Gregory, manager of the campaign for Herbert Hoover in the California Presidential primaries, in his testimony last night before the Senate investigation committee, denied previous statements that the expenditures made for Hoover in California, the total actually expended in the campaign there and in Oregon, Utah, Washington, Colorado, Nevada and Arizona altogether at $83,210. Supporters of Senator Johnson, when before the committee, said the total was $100,000, at least.

Itemizing, Gregory said, that $5,000 had been spent in Los Angeles and southern California, and $61,000 out of San Francisco headquarters for northern California and the outside states, with some salvage in office furniture and supplies which would bring the aggregate total when all accounts were closed.

He flatly denied that college students had been hired for working at polling places, saying they were volunteers. He testified, however, that 175 men had been hired in Los Angeles at $4 a day for canvassing and for watching at the polls.

Gregory viewed as the history of the Hoover movement in California, through which local clubs over the states were brought together in a state organization, which became legally qualified to nominate delegates for the primary convention. He said the movement was carried through without consulting Hoover, and that throughout the campaign the club had no "connection whatever with Hoover."

"Whatever was done in California," he declared, "was done by his friends there, of their own initiative."

After hearing Colonel E. H. R. Green of Texas, son of the late Mrs. Hetty Green, the committee adjourned until July 9.

Glass Will Make Fight for League at San Francisco

By DAVID M. CHURCH,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Senator Carter Glass, a potential presidential candidate, will be one of President Wilson's representatives at the San Francisco convention, it was learned today.

According to information in White House circles the President will depend largely on Senator Glass and Secretary of the Interior John B. Payne to execute his orders on the floor of the Democratic convention.

Senator Glass, it was learned, is already in San Francisco. The Virginian Senator has prepared a lengthy speech which he will deliver at the convention in answer to any attack which may be made upon the administration of President Wilson.

It is understood that Senator Glass is particularly prepared to offer an answer to William Jennings Bryan, who generally understood that his son-in-law, William G. McAdoo, is given the full value of his views on the treaty and the Virginian Senator has drawn a

WORKERS WHO SHIRK BLAMED FOR LIVING COST

MONTRÉAL, June 5.—John Donlin, president of the building trades department of the American Federation of Labor, threw a bombshell into the ranks of labor leaders here by demanding that workers are sharing their responsibility and that under-production is as much responsible as profiteering for the hardships suffered by the public.

The wage earner is just as much responsible for the high cost of living as any other agency," said Donlin in his annual report.

"If every worker doing physical labor does not insist that he get equal pay or times there would soon be a reduction in the price of commodities. The higher wages go and the more production falls off the more the worker is going to be hurt."

Blue Warns U. S. of Menace by Typhus

PARIS, June 5.—Major General Rupert Blue, former head of the United States Public Health Service, who is in Europe investigating health conditions with Dr. G. M. Converse of the American Health Commission, has just returned to Paris. He has cabled to Washington for five additional surgeons to be sent to northern ports to inspect all third-class passengers for America, in view of the prevalence of typhus in Poland.

"The presence of many cases of typhus and cholera in Poland is a grave danger to the United States, because Polish emigration to the United States is increasing daily," said Dr. Blue.

Dr. Blue gave it as his opinion that typhus and cholera probably would spread to Western Europe before the end of summer.

Paraphrasing the sugar situation in the United States as more critical than at any time during the war, Riley said an effort would be made to have bakeries economize in its use in pastries and to have hotels and restaurants ration sugar to their patrons.

G. O. P. MANAGERS TURN TO WOMEN FOR ASSISTANCE

By RAYMOND CLAPPER,
United Press Staff Correspondent.

CHICAGO, June 5.—Chicago today is the center of the battlefield on which the fight for the woman vote is being waged by the leading Republican candidates, apparently stiffer than ever, their managers are turning to the women for help, each hoping that if he can win their support the scales will be turned in his favor.

Women's bureaus are running full blast today at headquarters of Hiram Johnson, General Leonard Wood, Governor Frank O. Lowden and Herbert Hoover. Hotel lobbies are taking on the aspect of afternoon tea gatherings. But Miss Mary Garrett, Mrs. chairman of the Republican women's national executive committee, has served notice that women are not going to tolerate being used for mere "decorative" purposes. Added to the apprehension of old time politicians is the widely heralded plan of Miss Alice Paul, militant suffragist. It is announced thousands of women will join the demonstration she plans. Her hope is to hold the women in a separate block and to force rival managers and parties to bid against each other.

The security and inviolability of the suffrage amendment must be insured against the undermining influence of these false representatives of the people, who, having opposed it in the face of overwhelming popular demand, now seek re-election in order, it is said, to bring about abrogation," Miss Hay said.

MY HEART and HUSBAND

by ADELE GARRISON

The Way Hedges Quoted Alice Hume and Heard Some of Her Story.

"You're—you're splendid, mother!"

I whispered stammeringly, as I turned away and hurried down the stairs again to the chaise where I had left Alice Humeone.

I closed the door of the living room, switched on the light, and walked over to the huddled, shrinking figure of my friend.

"Don't try to talk just yet, unless you must," I said, slipping my arm around her and drawing her head to my shoulder. One glance into her eyes, wide opened, burning with horror, had told me that she was laboring under a nerve strain which it was highly advisable to lessen if possible.

She turned her face against my arm, clutching it with her fingers, then trembled convulsively.

"I—I must—tell—you," she choked, then her overstrained composure gave way and she began to sob—violent, shuddering sobs that wracked her whole slender body.

I slipped my fingers to her eyes, cautiously in the hope that the blessed relief of tears had come to her, but her eyes were dry and she was still sobbing.

And then I held her closely, tensely, straining my ears for some slight sound which should tell me that my mother-in-law had kept her word and had put a glass of restorative outside the door.

At last it came the merest writh of a sound, but I recognized it. I waited until she had had time to weep again, then I slipped away from her and opened the door to find not only the glass I had expected but a basin of cool perfumed water and a small towel.

With a silent blessing upon my irascible but sterling mother-in-law for her thoughtfulness I took the things back to my friend's side and put my hand upon her head, which had slipped to the arm of the chair when I had left her. The sobs were quieted now, but there was something that the helpless figure still alarmed me.

"Here, dear, lift your head for me," I commanded peremptorily.

She obeyed me, but I saw that her lips had lost their color and that her face was gray, while her hands were cold.

"Drink this," I held the pungent liquid to her lips, knowing that if it were the mildest usually favored by my mother-in-law in emergencies it was strong enough for the effect I wished.

QUIET AT LAST.

She drank it chokingly, but its potency was soon apparent in the color which came creeping back to her cheeks and lips, and in the humanizing of her eyes, which had looked before like those of some wild thing trapped.

Her lips parted in attempted speech, but I interposed quickly.

"Not a word yet," I said, drying the towel on the cold, shivering and beginning-to-tremble face I had kept my hands until the dry heat left her eyes and I felt her relax comfortably against me.

"Thank—you," she said a little later, raising her head. "I—am—perfectly—all—right—now, and—you—must listen."

"Of course," I responded promptly, drawing a chair close to her, seating myself so that it was facing her. Her hands were clasped in her lap, and I did not put mine over them, as I would have done with almost any other nerve-wracked woman, for I divined that she was mortified and ashamed of her breakdown and knew that my best kindness to her would be a pretense that her poise was unshaken.

ONE QUESTION.

"You understand what I said when I came in didn't you?" she asked.

The forcing of the words through her stiff lips was a pitiful betrayal of her still shaken nerves. "Milly is dead."

"Yes, I understand you," I responded.

I saw that any betrayal of the horror that was mine at her news would be the worst possible thing for her, and resolved to elicit her story by means of brisk questions, which would keep her mind alert instead of allowing her to paint again in continuous narrative the awful thing which evidently already had been drawn in lurid colors upon the canvas of her imagination.

"You said something about poison when you came in," I went on. "Was that the cause of her death?"

"Her physician says it was."

"What did it happen?" It seemed to me that my own heart almost stopped beating while I waited for her answer.

"Quite late this afternoon, I didn't hear of it until about an hour after it happened. What traits did you take in?" she broke off abruptly.

I told her, adding the information that I had just missed the one before.

"Then you must have been at the school when it happened," she cried excitedly. "Did—did—Kenneth telephone you there this afternoon?"

MR. WILSON MAKES AN ISSUE.

President Wilson, titular and actual leader of the Democratic party, has given a moderately positive indication of what the platform of the Democratic party is to be when the platform builders have finished their job at the San Francisco convention. This has come in the form of a letter from the President to Senator Carter Glass, expressing unqualified approval of the platform of the Virginia State Democratic convention, which Mr. Glass took a leading part in drafting.

It is not to be wondered at that President Wilson has seen fit to approve the Virginia effort. Much of that platform is devoted to praise for Mr. Wilson. His entire administration is endorsed in sweeping terms. It is intensely partisan and sounds the characteristic note of Democrats über alles.

Then there is the plank regarding the League of Nations which especially appeals to the President. It is as follows:

"We endorse the action of Virginia's Democratic Senators and Representatives in sustaining the President's view of our international obligations and for voting against resolutions designed to cut to pieces the vital provisions of the Versailles Treaty and against resolutions for separate peace, which would disgrace the nation. We advocate prompt ratification of the treaty without reservations which would impair its essential integrity."

In writing Senator Glass, the President expressed himself as warmly appreciative of this stand of the Virginians. He said:

"Aside from the purely personal references, which of course I deeply appreciate, let me say to you, my dear Senator, that the sentiments expressed in this notable document are in full accord with my own views, especially the statements which set forth the attitude of the party on the League of Nations and the pressing problems of peace, finance and reconstruction. These are the clear cut, unequivocal principles of patriotic men who know how to serve their country and mankind."

This is the manner in which the President has elected to make his views and wishes known to Democratic leaders in other States and particularly the delegates to the national convention. It is a perfectly obvious method and a strict admonition upon the convention to include such an endorsement of the League of Nations.

In this a clear and uncompromising challenge has been issued to Mr. Bryan to do his worst. One can well imagine that in the President's mind there has crept again the thought he voiced just prior to the Baltimore convention of 1912—to knock Mr. Bryan into a cocked hat. It may be seen therefore that if no other important contest develops at the San Francisco convention there will be a strenuous fight over the League of Nations plank. Mr. Bryan has opposed the President in this matter and has urged acceptance by the Democratic senators of the Lodge reservations. A few days ago he denounced Mr. Wilson's proposal for the acceptance of the Armenian mandatory.

It is also perfectly plain from the President's letter-writing that he ardently desires the peace treaty as an issue of the coming presidential campaign. Henceforth it cannot be expected that he will exert any effort to bring about ratification of the treaty before election.

The form in which the Republican platform of reference to the League of Nations will take cannot be predicted with certainty, but endorsement of the Lodge reservations, which was the judgment of the Republican majority in the Senate, is strongly indicated. The President's wish to have the people speak upon the merits of the two ideas will be accommodated.

PACIFIC FOREIGN TRADE.

Our share in the trade of the Orient has increased from less than 10 percent in the year before the war to over 20 percent in 1919. The total trade of the Orient, including in this term Asia and the adjacent islands, aggregated, says a statement of The National City Bank of New York, about $5,200,000,000 in 1913 of which about $475,000,000 was with the United States but in 1919 had advanced to $8,750,000,000 of which $1,850,000,000 was with the United States.

While the general trade of the Orient nearly doubled during the war period, that with the United States quadrupled. Our exports to Asia and the Philippines, which in 1913 amounted to only $158,000,000, were in 1919 $775,000,000, and in the fiscal year about to end will exceed $800,000,000: our imports from the section in question, which amounted to only $300,000,000 in 1913, were $1,100,000,000 in 1919 and will probably aggregate $1,300,000,000 in the fiscal year ending with next month.

The prospective total value of the foreign trade of the United States in the Pacific area for the current calendar year is therefore over $2,000,000,000, or as much as the total value of the foreign trade, exports and imports, of the country with all countries twenty years ago.

This increased value and volume of Pacific commerce is being accompanied by unexpected developments. For instance, Japanese and other foreign and some American steamship lines are routing their ships direct from the Atlantic Coast to Asia and from Asia to the Atlantic, through the Panama Canal without touching any Pacific ports of the United States. American manufacturers are studying plans for the establishment on the Pacific Coast of plants to receive the raw materials of the Orient and to produce finished commodities for the markets of Asia.

Again the port of San Francisco may be reminded of the timeliness of doing everything possible to obtain its share of the advantages which the increased trade holds for those who seek them in the most attractive manner.

THE TRUTH EXPOSED.

History often will write itself if left alone, as has been abundantly demonstrated in the case of Carranza and Mexico. One can look back upon history enacted with a deal more of confidence than may contemplate speculations, often weird, by those who like to anticipate history and its verdict.

Ever since Carranza assumed the office of chief of what he grandiloquently styled the "Constitutionalist" government in Mexico, a government that always failed to assert power over a large portion of Mexico and succeeded in enjoying nominal power over another large part solely by the method of farming out the privilege of brigandage and loot, there was a cry of a plot in this country against his administration. It was a loud cry and a perpetual one.

"Wall Street" and American "Capitalism" were the arch enemies of the "First Chief," if the pronouncements from Mexico City were to be believed. If the edicts appeared sufficiently plausible the Wilson administration caught them up and echoed them. In any event Carranza propagandists in this country exploited them to their full value. There was quite a propaganda staff in this country, maintained by Carranza. The chief of it for a while was an American ex-newspaper man, George F. Weeks, who conducted a series in Washington until he moved to Mexico City.

Some unsophisticated Americans took up the cry in a blundering, honest way, and lent their mistaken efforts to giving the impression that a conspiracy among "big interests" was in existence to plunge this country into war against Mexico. Dr. David Starr Jordan saw through one pacifist eye such an American plot and through the other pacifist eye a fine, enduring and deserving comrade in the person of Senor Carranza.

But time is a hard test. Carranza fell, but from blows from within—mild blows at that. Another group of Mexicans pushed his house of marked cards and it toppled in ruins. Carranza himself died in a hotel, from a bullet fired by a man whose father he had caused to be murdered. The noble vision, the benevolent heart, the far-sighted, patient mind, which the pro-Carranza fictionists had created out of their imagination and gullibility were found to mean only merciless and cruel greed for gold, a readiness to plunder the big estates and the poor peasants with equally voracious alacrity.

In the collapse America did nothing one way or the other. The plot of capitalism did not materialize. Carranza went the way of all profiteering, self-seeking dictators, overtaken by the vengeance of his betrayed people. This is the history of the case as enacted. Cold, unromantic, disillusioning, and hard on the propagandists and the habitual insurgents against everything that is.

Before long the friends and apostles of Lenin and Trotsky will find themselves in the same boat with the abandoned friends and exposed apostles of Carranza.

LITERATURE FOR LOGGERS.

May is a wearisome time to us loggers after the days of labor in the idle hours of a holiday, has had cause to reflect upon the loneliness of John Anderson, whose self-selecting isolation is to see that the lumber camps of the Pacific northwest do not lack abundant supplies of good reading. Through the "blue boy's" sum of contributions, this man gathers the prodigious store of current magazines and periodicals in red to serve the needs of the hundreds of soldiers in red to serve the timber industry. An American fellow, who was a timberman himself, not in the log line and who knows "the inside story" of the hours of shift. He Anderson is up and down the coast, in this case the Pacific Northwest, the timber camps, from time to time, in fact, and acting on current events as in the timber industry, the hardships of the craft, and goes to the sawmills and founds old for self-improvement.

Anderson is here in Portland again from one of his extended periods in the timber belt. He has now word that the party propaganda of the I. W. W. and the Loggers' Union, here the one I. W. W. group offering to the timber camps, is being dispensed by the books and periodicals of the Loggers' Union. In many camps he reports the workers' character is now moving to the timber belt in the 100 miles where it is class struggle with workers the red propagandists seek to stir up discontent among the country and government. An old logger, "the old-timer," in one of Anderson's "blue boy's" in a hole camp, brought to the timber in the state, is as radical as

NOTES and COMMENT

Some of the presidential booms seem to be mixed with sugar, so that it is necessary to differentiate. Sugar in politics used to be considered the quid pro quo, the "marums," the cash in hand, if a plainer term is necessary; but this seems to be the real thing—though how actual sacrifice came to be injected in an effort to reach the White House is a longer story than can be told here.

SPIRIT of the STATE PRESS.

California should be fair to investors. And investors should be fair to California. Fair dealing should be reciprocal between the state and investing interests. The state should treat capital, put into useful developmental enterprises, with justice and equity. So invested should respect scrupulously the rights and immunities of the people, and should be restrained by law if need be, from exploiting, oppressing or profiteering or predacious taking advantage of the people long term.

STRIKE OVER, SAY S. F. MACHINISTS, OAKLAND SAYS NO

Declarations of the Oakland local of Shipyard Machinists that the strike in the yards is not over is being met today by equally positive statements of the San Francisco union that it is, and by the spectacle of scores of machinists applying to register at the Moore, Union and Bethlehem plants.

News that the Oakland union, No. 284, voted not to return to work and did so by a large enough total to offset the figures of San Francisco for the whole bay section, was brought forward by the local machinists today as an argument against the return of any machinists. That there is an agreement by which strike action should be determined by the total vote on both sides of the bay, and that one side should not act independently of the other, was a general point. Oakland, while San Francisco union men do not that any such arrangement has been in effect. At a special meeting at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning in Machinists' hall some solution to the problem is expected to be offered.

The Oakland union voted by a ballot of 929 to 123 against terminating the strike. The San Francisco vote was 818 to 234 in favor of returning to work. Combined total was 1163 to 356 against the settlement.

On action on the declaration of Frank S. Miller, secretary of the Bay City Iron Trades Council, that there is no agreement binding one union to the action of the other, many men are registering for places in the yards.

G. F. Shorit, delegated to speak for the Oakland union, has announced that the machinists are still out.

The carpenters and maritime laborers have already returned, while the boilermakers have deferred action until next week.

WOMEN FIGHT ON ELEVATED TRAIN FOR EMPTY SEAT

NEW YORK, June 5.—Miss Sara Ring, 26, of 8 Doyers street, riding up on a Third avenue elevated train at rush hour, saw a seat. So did Mrs. Doris Zeiderman, 40, of 817 East Seventy-first street. Miss Ring dived for it. So did Mrs. Zeiderman. Miss Ring is of goodly proportions. So is Mrs. Zeiderman. The seat was small.

The things that Mrs. Zeiderman said to Miss Ring and the things Miss Ring said to Mrs. Zeiderman were too much for either to bear complacently. At Twenty-eighth street the fight began. At Forty-second it was still going full swing. Men in the car, too gallant to interfere in a dispute between ladies, stood around and cheered on.

Miss Ring had lost her hat, she had lost most of her waist and some of her hair; she also had a badly scratched face. So had Mrs. Zeiderman, who had to answer to a charge of assault.

RICE CROP DOUBLES

FUBA CITY, June 5.—The Pacific Rice Dealers' Association has sold 36,000 bags of rice this year in Sutter and Colusa counties, the local representative's records show and the rice crop in the two counties promises to be much greater than last year, and in Colusa county the output will be doubled. With the opening of new rice districts in the Meridian district in Sutter, and the Grimes district in Sutter and Colusa, some 24,000 acres has been added to the rice acreage in the two counties and is rapidly being planted.

TEACHERS DEMAND RAISE

CHICAGO, June 5.—Demanding that a special tax be levied so that they might be granted a 40 per cent increase over the salaries granted under their old contracts, Chicago teachers appeared and urged their cause before the Board of Education.

It was pointed that with the school tax already raised to the legal limit of 50 cents, only an increase of $15 per month could be granted. The teachers say this is inadequate.

The 4th Infantry Band will accompany the demonstrators and contribute to the program which will be given during the serving of luncheon.

JUNGLE GOWNS ARE FEW AT ELKS' DANCE

ALAMEDA, June 5.—While a masquerade dance will always "go big" in Alameda, local society did not have the nerve to don jungle gowns. Only a few men have ever actually experienced in his terrific dash to the South Pole, when his ship was crushed and he had to fight his way back over the ice floes.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS' FIRE APPARATUS INVESTIGATED

A further investigation of the condition of fire prevention apparatus and safety devices in the Oakland public schools has been ordered by Fire Chief Elliott Whitehead, and the department inspectors are now on the tour of every school building in the city. The investigation will be followed by a report to the board of education on the condition of the school buildings.

A similar probe was made some months ago under the direction of Chief Whitehead, with the result that the board of education was served with notice that some schools were virtually firetraps and that means must be taken to renew extinguishers and other apparatus and material. A special committee was appointed by the school directors to report on the condition.

A detailed report was submitted to the board of education a week ago, recommending an expenditure of $3000 for additional fire prevention equipment, but action was turned over to the committee of the whole with the result that Secretary D. D. Barzee was instructed to investigate ways and means of securing the necessary equipment. It is in view of the committee's report that the present investigation is being made by Chief Whitehead.

TEACHERS BAND TO MAKE DRIVE
FOR HIGHER PAY

At a recent meeting of the joint teachers' committees appointed by the various teachers' organizations of Oakland, it was decided to carry on a campaign during the summer for a living wage for the teachers.

Campaign headquarters have been established in Room 8, Chabot Hall.

The campaign is being directed by an executive committee made up of the following members:

R. Stuart, general chairman; Miss Luis A. Shinn, executive secretary; D. G. Gridley, treasurer; Edward E. Miller, auditor; George M. Thirion, chairman of data committee; Mrs. Olive McCall, chairman of information committee; W. E. Clayton, chairman publicity committee; F. H. Boren, chairman endorsement of men's organizations; Mrs. Alice Heydorn, chairman of endorsement of women's organizations; E. R. Stuart, general chairman when in Chabot Hall, president, said: "We want it clearly understood by the people of Oakland that the teachers are not asking the public to add in this campaign simply out of sympathy for the teachers."

MANY QUIT SCHOOLS.

"We believe, however, that the public should know the facts, and the facts are simply these:

"Last year 4,000 teachers left the schools of America to enter other fields of work. These were usually the best trained and most efficient teachers in the profession, since with their breadth of experience and training they found it a comparatively simple matter to better themselves financially in other fields. However, it is quite evident that the individual teacher's gain in the public's making the transfer was the public's loss."

Without doubt there are thousands of California teachers who are seriously considering the problem of dropping teaching with the end of this term. Despite their special training for this work, their love for the profession, and their experience in dealing with boys and girls they find it next to impossible to live on their present salaries. On meet with their present salaries. On the other hand, it is no difficult matter to secure positions which pay at the very start from 50 per cent to 100 per cent more than they are now receiving.

OUTSIDE PAY HIGHER.

"As an example of this a former Oakland teacher who is now with one of the tire companies wrote me concerning the opportunities in the oilland schools. He said: 'I am making $2700 in my present position. What would I receive if I came back?' I looked up the matter and found that he would get hardly more than half this salary in the Oakland schools."

"Two or three weeks ago, one of our best known schoolmen of Oakland was elected to a position in which he would receive an increased of $1400 over his present salary. If he is worth that in a new position, is he not worth it to the Oakland schools?"

"A month or so ago the Standard Oil company secured the services of one of the most efficient drawing teachers at the Technical high school and started him with an initial salary, 25 per cent higher than he received in the Oakland schools after ten years of conscientious painstaking service."

"These are just a few of the cases. There are dozens of others. The question is: Will Oakland permit her best teachers to leave ad enter other work, or will she get behind the teachers in their campaign for a living wage?"

TIRED LOOKING WOMEN

Some women always wear a worn, tired look. It is the outward sign of nervous neurosis, perhaps, with its characteristic symptoms of worry, headaches and sleeplessness.

Overwork, grief, undue excitement, the late hours and nervous strain of a strenuous social season, lack of out-of-door exercise, any or all of these may be responsible for the trouble, but the most common cause at this season of the year is the kidney.

Whatever the cause, if you feel the need of more strength, take the great non-alcoholic tonic, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. As the nerves get their nourishment from the blood, the treatment must be directed towards building up the blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills act directly on the blood and with proper regulation of the diet have proved of the greatest benefit in many cases of nervousness, perhaps, with its characteristic symptoms of worry, headaches and sleeplessness.

PROTEST FAILS TO LIFT BAN ON BEEHIVES

PIEDMONT, June 5.—James K. Moffitt, University of California regent, and Cary W. Hartman, county bee inspector and president of the Alameda County Beekeepers' Association, appeared before the board of supervisors at its last meeting to protest the adoption of an ordinance prohibiting the keeping of bee hives within 600 feet of a residence in Piedmont.

Efforts of the bee men were fruitless for the ordinance had been adopted as an outgrowth of a case in which an entire neighborhood had petitioned against the bees kept by a Piedmont resident.

The council explained that it was the intention only to enforce the ordinance in cases where complaint is received from neighbors of bee keepers.
